Eclipse As Seen in Norway from Dunn Farm in Yaggar Neighborhood.

Eclipse Study by Local People

Special Equipment by V. Akers and S. B. Cummings Produce Above Picture

—Efforts Proved a Success

A Norway group of amateur photographers who endeavored to snare the moon covered, but elusive, solar corona at time of eclipse, met with various degrees of success.

While the magnificent western exposure of view from Pike's Hill was admirable, because of possible interference of unsteady winds, a station was chosen on the top of Virgil Dunn, in Yaggar Neighborhood, another wonderful outlook. Mr. Dunn kindly granted the request to occupy a position on the site of his old home, besides the furnished camera for the occasion, the photographers of the group were made with a special camera of 80 1-2 inch lens, designed by V. Akers, our local photographer. He also made a finder for same, from the old photographic lens that Anthony Crockett uses for the citizens of this vicinity, in the bygone days.

Ed Packard did the carpenter work, Raymond Winslow did the mechanical work, while Miss Minnie Libby, another local photographer, assisted by Dorothy Packard, worked into the night to perfect Vivian's masterpiece by stopping light leaking places.

Yesterday was the great day for the eclipse. At the hour of beginning, threatening clouds seemed certain to interfere with operations, and did at first contact of the moon with the sun, but the upper left object in the picture was clearly registered and in the progress of the eclipsing sun, the thin crescent at near totality, in a clear sky, put everybody in a keen state of expectancy of what was soon to happen. They were not disappointed, for the corona was displayed, quickly followed by the flash corona also shown in the picture. Real scientific data was secured by the group.

Superintendent of Schools, Edminister, in a cool state of mind, ran off the correct Arlington time by a ship's chronometer, Edward Brown, instructor of agriculture, observed the varying changes of temperature from a laboratory instrument. Charles Akers, Norman Green, Mr. and Mrs. Cummings, aided by V. Akers, who operated the large camera and who had to work rapidly at time of totality.

About forty exposures were made of the 1932 total eclipse.

Henry Cullinan secured some interesting pictures of the multiplicity of miniature crescents found on a screen by rays of the eclipse coming through the leaves of a tree, at partial phase.

When the moon finally drew away from the sun, everybody seemed satisfied and left reluctantly from the scene, the alto-gether too brief a period of a total eclipse.

JACKSON FAMILY REUNION

The fifth annual reunion of the Jackson family was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rust Jackson in Millettsville. About 100 were present, descendants of Lemuel and Susan Jackson, early settlers of Paris, many of whom came to this country from the old country.

A picnic dinner was served upon tables placed about the lawn, with the host and hostess furnishing ice cream, fruit salad and coffee. Following a brief business meeting, an impromptu entertainment was given as follows:

Judge C. F. Whitman

Died at His Home Monday Evening—

Just Observed 65th Wedding Anniversary

After a long period of failing health, Judge Charles F. Whitman passed away August 29, at his home on Crescent St. He was well known as a historian, writer, politician, public speaker and attorney, being the oldest member of Oxford County Bar. His age was 84 years.

The deceased was born in Buckfield, Feb. 6, 1848, the son of Joshua and Phoebe Foster Whitman. He attended Hebrew Academy and Bates Latin School then taught school on Crockett Ridge. On Aug. 27, 1868, he married a pupil, Miss Mary A. Dinsmore. They quietly observed their 65th anniversary last Saturday with the family present.

Attorney Whitman was admitted to Oxford County Bar in 1868 and located in Mechanic Falls, five years later he took over the law practice of Levi Whitman, in Norway Village.

For twenty years he was clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court in Oxford County and served as Judge of Norway Municipal Court for ten years, as its first Judge.

Some fourteen years ago Judge Whitman opened an office adjoining the home and devoted most of his time to pension and probate work until failing eyesight resulting in surgery caused him to give up much of his practice.

Judge Whitman wrote a history of Norway and Buckfield and was a contributor of many personal sketches, historical data and stories to the Norway Advertiser and other newspapers. He had served as supervisor of schools and was the originator of the Norway Public Library.

Besides his widow, he leaves two sons, Victor M. Whitman of Norway and Prof. Verne M. Whitman of Lacombe, N. H.

The funeral will be held at his late home, Thursday, at 4 p. m., attended by Rev. E. B. Tetley of South Paris. Interment in Norway Pine Grove Cemetery.

CLASS REUNION

The class of 1890, Norway High School held its annual reunion Tuesday evening at South Waterford, at "The Parker House," the fourth consecutive year the gathering has been held at this place, which proves conclusively its popularity.

It was expected that fourteen would answer the call, but two were detained at home so there were twelve to enjoy a most delicious chicken dinner with all the fixings, including a bounteous supply of sweet corn raised in the garden there and pronounced the sweetest corn ever eaten. There was much hilarity during the repast which proved a sure antidote for indigestion.

The large parlor was given over to the class after dinner, and in the absence of the president, Rust Jackson, Honore J. Cole acted in this capacity. The minutes of the last reunion were read, the secretary having kept all the happenings of the class since graduation. Freehand drawing was the order of the evening. Miss George Tucker, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Nettie McSwiney and L. H. Cushman, executive committee. The remainder of the evening was spent socially and with music. Since 1915 a reunion has been held every year with the exception of 1927, when the death of one of the members occurred just when reunion had been planned. Between the years 1890 and 1915, the gatherings were held once in two or three years and often class parties have been held between the yearly gatherings, so the class has held together wonderfully well and the annual reunions are looked forward to with much pleasure.

The present was given by Mrs. A. L. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Locke, Mrs. Grace Cushman, Mrs. Nettie McSwiney, Miss Cora Tucker, Freehand Howe, Horace Cole and a guest, Miss Therese McSwiney.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cordwell of Elm Shade Farm, celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary Tuesday evening. Friends were present from Brockton and Fall River, Mass., and Norway. The home was prettily decorated with glads and flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Cordwell were the recipients of many useful gifts, among which was a group of pyrex ware. Massachusetts friends and the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cordwell, George, William and James, were present. The characters being as follows: Bride, Hedley Moss; Groom, George Cordwell; Bridesmaid, Wilson Cordwell; Best Man, Mrs. Rose Cordwell; Flower Girl, James Cordwell; Ring Bearer, Lee Barker; Minister, Mrs. Hedy Moss. Games and contests of all kinds were enjoyed and ices and cake were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Cora Cordwell and Mrs. Roy Cordwell.

MRS. LEONA G. TUBBS SHOWERED

Mrs. Leona G. Tubbs was given a shower at the home of Mrs. Mabel C. Bicknell, Tuesday evening. This was in honor of her approaching marriage to Ransom D. Gould and given by Mrs. Bicknell.

Gifts were concealed and a string to be followed was the clue which led to them. A lunch and refreshments were served by the hostess.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lydia Brackett, Mrs. Lizzie Brackett, Miss Myrtle Pisk, Miss Alice Swett, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Chute and Ransom D. Gould.

Billie White and Frank Marler of Lewiston were callers on friends, Tuesday evening.

Miss Mabel C. Saunders, a student nurse at the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, Boston, was at her home recently for a three weeks vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmore Robinson spent the week end at Naples with his sister, Mrs. Henry Maxfield, and husband.

Mrs. Delmore Robinson gave to West Bethel this week end to care for her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. M. Head, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Seavey of the Beals Tavern returned last Saturday from a ten days trip to New York State and Canada.

Pennesseevass Lodge, K. of P., accepted an invitation to visit the rank of Knights for Oxford Bear Lodge at Hanover, Saturday night, Sept. 3, and will attend, being represented with a large delegation. Hanover Knights are splendid entertainers and all are assured of a good time.

Charles Huff, called the dahlias which have several rows of blooms at his home. Many flowers will easily cover a dinner plate, for they have been unusually large this season. Visitors by the score admire the display.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison Allen and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Allen, of Germanotta, Pa., and Prof. and Mrs. John Atwater of Rockport, Me., all summer guests at Canton, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Buck.

4-H CLUBS

The Hill Top Hustlers 4-H Girls' Club and the Hill Top Rooter Boys' Club had a delightful and never-to-be-forgotten day, Monday, when they went on a trip for a sight seeing trip. Instead of holding the usual camping trip, they decided to do something unusual, and both clubs held socials and sold candy and ice cream to raise the money to take the trip. They saw about everything there was to see in the State House, went through the Blaine Mansion, bringing home memories of the many wonderful things they saw. Plans for the trip were made by Mrs. Merton Wymen, Mrs. Carleton Cox and Mrs. Fred Dunn provided transportation.

Mrs. Sarah Wheeler is visiting her son, Charles Wheeler, at Bethel.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

The eclipse is over and we are safe for two generations. County fair is the next big event, then follows weeks of readjustment ending in snow drifts and fuel bills.

A limited number of the George Washington quarters have been received at the Chase Mercantile Trust Co. in Norway and may be had at par. No advance in price.

Wm. B. Walker presented us the last of the week with a handsome bouquet of phlox—a wide variety of colors and shades. The fragrance scented the office for a number of days.

We heard someone ask this question: "Why did they close up the stores for so long a time, Wednesday, during the eclipse?" and the reply was: "So that folks could get out of town onto some of the distant hills and not see the eclipse."

Richard Vivian found some tickets near his grandmother's home, Mrs. Eleanor O. Clement's on Pike Hill, recently and sent them to this office by his brother to find the owner. They are here waiting for you.

An ad appears in this issue, calling attention to an auction to be held at Hartford, near East Summer, at the residence of the late Rev. Lucien M. Robinson, on Saturday, Sept. 3, at 10 a. m., daylight time. See ad for articles for sale.

Camps are closing and folks are returning home especially those who have children to enter school. Others are remaining for a longer stay to enjoy the fall season which is one of the best of the year in Maine.

J. Wheelwright of Boston called, Wednesday, on business. He was up this way to secure a good view of the eclipse and incidentally sell a few motors. He represents the Atlantic Electric Co., of Boston.

George Ehren Fried, who is stopping at Shepley's Camps, took some fine pictures of the eclipse from George Howe's on Pike's Hill, which he offered to use in the Advertiser. He said Mr. Howe was a busy man with a large crowd to witness the eclipse.

Eye shades and colored goggles were a staple article in several stores and in demand days before the eclipse. Over a street car was seen to hold out as occupants of automobiles along Main St. His line was like this, "Last chance to get a share before reaching Fryeburg. Buy today for they will be gone tomorrow."

A. D. Park of South Paris, Register of Probate of Oxford County, was a caller, Tuesday. He was elected to that office forty years ago this month. He is as active and willing to talk as at any time in the past. He is looking after his "fences" just a bit, but not neglecting his official duties.

Walter K. Hamlin of South Waterford tells us he is just as enthusiastic over the success of his business as ever, but when it comes to working he is a little bit of a glutton for work. Roll carding is picking up, strange as it may seem—hand-knitting is becoming a popular fad and Hamlin's carding mill is about the last one operating in Maine.

Walter L. Sanborn and wife, of Lansdale, Pa., are calling on friends in this vicinity. Walter is editor, manager and controlling officer of the Equitable Publishing Co., of his town. The North Star Reporter, a 5 cent per week paper, is issued. It is a splendid local paper, well handled. After looking at the eclipse, they are to go to Danforth, Milo, Bingham, and Lakewood, Maine, before returning home.

In company with Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Sanborn of Lansdale, Pa., with his sister, Agnes of Newton, Mass., and three sons of Norway and Maine, Edith, Wilson, Miss Belle Wilson, Mrs. E. C. Winslow and grandchild of the Winslow family, Edward Winslow, we inspected the antics of the eclipse in the far famed Grafton North. Clouds were everywhere yet it was pronounced a success especially the ride of 170 miles and the roadside picnic dinner.

Everyone has the problem of disposing of the cans, bowls, etc., and there is a dump up on Water Street where such things are deposited and disposed of. But every little while, owners of land along the highway find bushes of old tin cans and rubbish along into their wood lots near the road for passing autos. The Waterford road, at different places, is often used for such a dump. The owners have to clear it away or leave the unsightly messes by the roadside. Our attention has been called to several such dumps, and "Will the offenders please put their rubbish where it belongs?" is the request of the land owners.

W. O. Fuller and wife were recent callers. They live in Rockland. He edits the Courier-Gazette of that city, when he sees fit. Mrs. Fuller presides over a beautiful home and a grown-up family. She also takes a lively interest in the Gen. Knox mansion, "Montpelier" in Thomaston.

The rebuilding and collecting of the scattered house furnishings was in a great measure her work. She retains a lively interest in the continuing to several such link between the past and the present.

They were on their way to visit their son-in-law, daughter, and three grand children, who live in Shelburne, N. H., and are members of the Philbrook family of that town.

Don C. Seitz, New York, writes: "I am inclined to think the bonus should have been paid instead of giving life to Illinois and other badly managed states. It would have reduced a liability instead of creating one as has been done."

A lady editor friend of mine in North Carolina, who is very dry, says that it will go against her grain to vote for the wet Democrat who is running for governor in his state, but she is bravely going to do it. I see by the Brunswick Record that young Cornelius Fanning has been running Maine in the Democratic interest and thinks it looks hopeful for his side; did not know anything could look hopeful in Maine.

Speaking of fish, there were so many mackerel playing on our nearby Long Beach on Long Island, yesterday, as to drive the bathers ashore.

Archie Shorey has been made proton superintendent of the Allagany State Park in Catteraugus County and is having a great time straightening out a political management that has not been doing its duty."

The Way We Look at it

We look upon our work as an opportunity to be of service. It has practically the same problems as any other business or profession and is subject in the same way to common sense and fair dealing. But we think it gives unusual scope for sympathy and thoughtfulness, and these qualities have a large part in the ideal we set for ourselves.

Maine Publicity Bureau

At the garage where I have been making repairs made to my car, the day before yesterday, Friday, that their service business was just 21 per cent behind last year and that if they have as good business the next three weeks as they have had the past three weeks, they will better the average by the close of the season.

Every index we have been able to obtain seems to indicate a falling off of business in the present time as compared with last year. July saw a slump everywhere and it seems to be the quite universal opinion that the first two weeks in August have stepped up remarkably well and the situation are, because of the relief of the sun, that business will continue good throughout the month and perhaps into September. Hotel and tourist business, when we have covered the question of satisfactory returns by the close of the season closes, taking into consideration the present economic conditions.

If any of us think we are having a hard time financially, listen to this story which was recently told by a hotel manager. At one of the best hotel est resort hotels in New England, a man had been a guest of the hotel for the past six years, who entertained his family and thought nothing of spending $17, or $20, for flowers along the route. This is this summer washing along the kitchen of that hotel and glad of the opportunity.

There have been many vicious rumors circulated this year, the same as last year, that several of our larger hotels had opened or were going to close because of lack of business. After a most careful study and determining that there was no truth whatever in those statements, we set a story which was published in the leading New York and Boston papers to that effect. In spite of that, a man asked us a few days ago if it was true that the large house at Point Spring was going to close. Of course, we immediately denied it. We told him that it doesn't do anybody any good and does a lot of harm.

The Maine Central Railroad is offering special service over their Mountain Division to those who want to observe the total eclipse of the sun, August 31st. The White Mountain region along the Maine Central Railroad is in the 100 mile path of totality and Maddocks Station for Douglas Hill, Steep Falls for South Limington, where there is a Government observatory and camera being erected, and other stations to Fryeburg and surrounding territory are situated on or close to the central line and are to be used for sites for official observation.

A special train will leave Portland at 11:15 A. M., arriving Bartlett 1:20 P. M., stopping at all stations enroute and returning leave Bartlett at 3:55 P. M., due in Portland 6 P. M. Standard Time. This gives connection with a special train from points on the Boston & Maine R. R. as well as from and to points east of Portland.

Why is it that the officials in charge of cutting bushes along the highways order this done in the month of August, the height of the tourist season? We prefer particularly to that work now being done on Route 18 because we happen to travel it every day and also because it is expected that thousands of visitors will travel that route to Fryeburg and interesting territory because of the total eclipse of the sun, August 31st.

Why can't this work be just as well done the latter part of September or in May, October and still get under the work of the law, which, as we understand it, requires this to be done by November 1st? That will also give a chance for the wild flowers and shrubs to seed for next year. This may sound like a childish suggestion, but we are all going to make a goodly number of dollars out of this business philosophy. It is a good business philosophy to spend thousands of dollars in advertising the State and having the tourists come to come here and then talk about the business philosophy. It is a good business philosophy to show up to poor advantage while they are here?

They come here to enjoy the scenery and our highways. Is it more desirable to look at limbs and bushes with their turning to a sickly yellow or brown and rotting shrubs and flowers than it is to look at the bloom of goldenrod and other beautiful fall flowers? It is a good business philosophy for our tourist visitors to see a goodly number of dollars out of this business philosophy.

else another year if they do not like what we offer.

We had this question brought home to us very recently by a lady who asked for a route back to New York City, which would take her over the Mo-hawk Trail. Asking her if this was because of construction, she said, "No, because of destruction." Six years ago when she first travelled over the Mohawk Trail, she thought it was the most beautiful trip she had ever taken, but when she went over it the other day she found it so commercialized with signs, hot dog stands, destruction of much of its immediate beauty, and obstruction of distant views that she never wanted to travel over it again. Do we want this to happen to the highways of Maine?

Have you noticed on Route 13 the new highway signs designating the established official short highway route between Montreal and Portland? This route, laid out by a committee representing the Maine Publicity Bureau, was started by the late Hiram W. Ricker when he was President of the Bureau. An international committee was appointed representing the Province of Quebec and the States of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine cooperating with the Highway Departments of the Province and those three States.

It is expected by next season that the route selected will be a hard surfaced, dustless highway, practically its entire distance between the two cities.

An additional route is being laid out between the City of Quebec and Portland over the Jackman Highway and similar signs have already been ordered and will be set up this fall.

These signs are circular in shape, of heavy sheet steel and are in colors. The name "Montreal" or "Quebec" is at the top and "Portland" at the bottom and in the center are crossed American and Canadian flags. Signs are being erected on short iron posts at all important road intersections and are easily visible day and night.

This is one of the most important movements developed by this Bureau to tie up friendly relations with our Canadian neighbors.

Among the many interesting letters we receive acknowledging the efficiency of our service, is one that has just come in the mail from Augusta, Georgia, reading as follows:

"The literature you sent is both fascinating and intriguing. I thank you for it, also for your later assistance in having other helpful material sent me. My friend and I are now in B. B. B. N. Y. We plan to leave here about the middle of next week. We will head directly east for Maine. I hope I shall be able to thank you there in person for your assistance.

In the August issue of the Fall River Line Journal there is a splendid six page illustrated article on "Maine and Her Mountains" by Alfred Eldon. No mountain climber or hiker can read this article without wanting to come to Maine.

We have had splendid cooperation from a local hiking club through Arthur M. Fogg of Portland, to whom we are indebted for a list of 364 mountains of Maine, showing their name, their altitude, the location of fire stations and other interesting data of much value to us in handling information to the public.

We have had many criticisms in statements made that we are directing tourist travel via some particular route to the injury of some other route between the same terminals. Such criticism is extremely unjust and because people do not always stop to think that there are two sides to every question. After a careful study, it looks to us that because business is not normal and people operating places that are catering to tourist travel are not receiving the volume of business which they did last year or the year before immediately jump to the conclusion that business is being diverted to some other route when as a matter of fact, it is simply an item in the present economic situation. It is entirely natural that not so many people should be traveling or spending so much money.

We cannot see any reason why we should be blamed for it. If people in our State will first find out the facts and then stick to them, that is all we can ask and even though much of the criticism is by people who do not financially subscribe to the operation of this Bureau, which is supported entirely by private subscription. Nutsed.
